The Grind with Mrs. Coffey

It's always a great day at Shickley Public Schools. We have had staff hard at work throughout the summer preparing the building for our students and teachers. Laughter and excitement has poured from the Early Learning Facility. Office personnel has prepared forms, computers, and so much more for our students, staff, and administration. Teachers and coaches have been in and out of the building all summer long, and Shickley Public Schools' administration is excited to see it all come together on August 15th and beyond.

Students: I hope you have found ample ways to enjoy your summer. Getting to know each and every one of you is something I truly look forward to.

Parents and Community: Thank you for entrusting Shickley Public Schools with your children. I truly believe "it takes a village." How fortunate we are to live in such a supportive community with great advocates, families, and children.

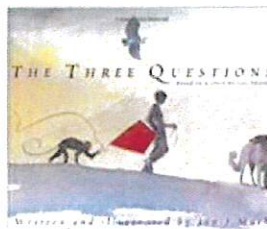

Staff: Now is the time to do what Shickley Public Schools does best - prepare each student for success. What an amazing profession you are in! You have the opportunity to make a difference each and every day. Embrace those opportunities!

My challenge to Shickley Public Schools' students, parents and community, and staff is to Be Where Your Feet Are. Be present in all that you do. There are many times in our lives when our mind will wander endlessly, but our feet can only physically be present in one location; where you are at that moment in time. Being where your feet are, being present, and possessing mindfulness all mean the same thing. Concentrate on the task at hand, eliminate distractions, and connect with those around you. When you listen to a friend talk, are you focused on what they are saying or only on what you are going to say next? At supper time, does everyone have a device out or are you having a face to face conversation with one another? During class, a work meeting, or a conference, are you listening and taking golden nuggets of knowledge with you, or are you thinking about your own personal to-do list? If you are physically in the classroom, be there socially, emotionally, and mentally too. If you are playing football on the field, invest your energy in focusing on the game plan, your coaches, and your teammates. If you are eating supper with your family, put the devices away and enjoy time socializing with the people you love.

Being where your feet are is NOT an easy task, especially in the world we live in today. To be present you must be very intentional. Start little by heightening your awareness to know when you are or aren't being intentionally present. I also recommend the following book for all ages: The Three Questions by Jon J. Muth. This book will inspire conversations about kindness, compassion, and living in the moment.
